The Task Before Us

the income may be, spend a little less and deposit the difference in the Savings Bank. This is the great service that this bank renders to the public—the carctaking of the monies that might otherwise go to waste. All of these funds are losned out in this city, a large part of it on Real Estate, which enables the thrifty wage-earner to acquire his home. The Savings Bank does not invest in stocks that are subject to fluctuations, but every dollar s put to work.

During the year just closed the Savings Bank paid to its depositors over thirty-five thousand dollars for inter-est. This should give the people an idea of our work. Many good people are not yet lined up with us, and to all we extend a cordial invitation to open an account.

The idea of safety is of paramount importance, and this depends entirely upon the character of the men behind the institution. How well they have managed is best evidenced by the fact that we closed the year without the loss of a dollar, nor any unpaid interest. This is indeed a record to be proud of, and proves the watchful care of the directors of the hank. ful care of the directors of the bank.

of Engineers.

The regular monthly meeting of the Richmond Society of Engineers for January will be held on Thursday night in the Virginia Mechanics' Institute building. The main address will be held Jointly under the auspices of the Engineers' Society and the membership of the Mechanics' Institute. Dr. William M. Thornton, dean of the department of engineering of the University of Virginia, will be the principal speaker, and will have as his theme "The Panama Canal."

During the past summer Dr. Thornton made an extended trip through the Canal Zone and gave much time and study to the unique problems relating to the design and operation of that engineering project. He inter compiled this information from its different aspects, and his talk will not only be of interest, but will be of much value to all the several branches of the profession in Richmond, and also to the students of the institute, as Dr. Thornton's broad experience and keen analytical powers make him especially sultable to handle a subject such as this enormous undertaiting presents. Dr. Thornton is recognized as one of the great engineering authorities of the East, and has for many years been a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

This part of the meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Mechanics' Institute, beginning at 8:20 o'clock, and will be open to the public, and to all interested without charges for admission.

STABLE EVIDENCE IN

Court to Hear Argument To-Morrow on Appeal of Bennett et al.

Evidence in the trial of A. W. Bennett and other stable keepers, appealing from a $10 fine in Police Court for failure to install tight flooring in their stables, in compliance with a rule of the Board of Health, was concluded yesterday afternoon in the Hustings Court, and to-mofrow Judge D. C. Richardson will hear argument.

Several stable keepers who had complied with the regulation promulgated by the Board of Health testified yesterday that the cement flooring was more sanitary than any other, though for the sake of the horses they preferred a flooring of hard clay. They said that they had not noticed that the horses suffered any more from hard and brittle feet, soreness of the joints and general stiffness by standing on a cement floor than by standing on a hard clay floor, but they added that the latter flooring afforded practically as good drainage as the cement.

By agreement between the contending parties to the case, the question is to be decided by the court. C. V. Moredith is representing A. W. Bennett and the others, while Assistant City Attorney Anderson is representing the Board of Health.
